

Learn About Bats at the Denver Library!

Bats are often misunderstood creatures, but they offer a lot of benefits to humans and the environment.

Join Bremer County Conservation after school on Wednesday, October 8th from 2:30-3:30 for a special program for kids (and adults) on bats.

Conservationist Angie Auel will be on hand to teach about the unique features of these animals and how bats are important to a healthy ecosystem. The program is free to attend, and no pre-registration is necessary.
